PRICE THREE CENTS

METHODISTS CHOOSE FOUR NEW BISHOPS

Rev. Miller, Lowe, Gross and Badley May All Be Sent to Foreign Fields, Belief of Conference

FIFTH NOT NAMED

Result of Seventh Ballot Will Be Made Known Today—Assignments to Stations Is Next Business

Spencerfield, Mass., May 22. — Resolutions for the rank of delegates and the right of speaking from the floor, four men rose from their seats at the Methodist Episcopal general conference today and took their places on the platform. The platform after two days of uncertain balancing, the 856 members of the conference grasped their pencils more firmly and filled all but one of the vacancies on the board of bishops.

The new bishops, in the order of their election are: Dr. George A. Miller of Panama City, superintendent of the Central American missions (570 votes);
Dr. George R. Gross, of Greencastle, Ind., president of DePaul university, (560 votes); and Dr. Brenton T.
Badley, Calcutta, executive secretary of the Centenary movement in India and Burma, (553 votes).

May All Go to Foreign Fields

The foreign field will, it is expected, receive three or four and perhaps all five of the new bishops. Mr. Miller has travelled and done mission work through Central and South America;
his knowledge of conditions south of the isthmus and his mastery of the Spanish language in which he has written several books on church problems have made him the logical candidate for the residence at Buenos Aires or Mexico City. Dr. Badley was born and educated in India, and it is the common presumption that he will fill the post at Delhi, Calcutta, or Bangalore. The disposition of Dr.
Gross and Lowe is uncertain.

Announce Seventh Ballot Today

Born at Bilston, England, in 1877,
Dr. Lowe was ordained in this country in 1900, and was a pastor in Pennsylvania, Iowa, and Nebraska, and from 1903 to 1908 at Calcutta, India. Dr. Badley, 47, whose father, the late B. H. Badley, founded the Jackson Christian college, received his education and taught English at the institution, and was formerly general secretary of the Epworth League in India. He is editor of the India Witness, the official Methodist organ in that country. Dr. Gross, who is 55, was born in West Virginia. Previous to becoming president of De-Paul in 1912, he headed churches in Massachusetts and at Baltimore, Md.
The seventh ballot was taken this afternoon and its result will be announced tomorrow when the bishop's election is complete. The result of the election will be announced to all stations for the delegates action.

BRITISH LIQUOR TREATY SIGNED

Automatically Continues in Effect
Year After Year Until One Nation Would Change It

Washington, May 22. — A formal treaty between Great Britain and the United States, which provides for the automatic continuation of the liquor treaty for a period of one year after the expiration of the present treaty, was signed today by the British ambassador in this city, Sir John Balfour, and the American secretary of state, Mr. Clegg.

WORLD ELIMINATE SURCHARGE

Washington, May 22. — The Federal Reserve board today announced that it had decided to eliminate the surcharge on the discount rate for banks which maintain reserve requirements in excess of the legal limit. The board said that the surcharge had been in effect since 1917, and that it was now being removed.
The board also announced that it had decided to reduce the discount rate for banks which maintain reserve requirements in excess of the legal limit from 6 per cent to 5 per cent.

COMPOSITE WORLD COURT PLAN READY

Senator Pepper Drafts Resolution Providing Modification of Harding Proposal

Washington, May 22. — A composite plan for adherence to the permanent court of justice with reservations was laid before the senate today in resolution drafted by Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania, after two days of consultation with his colleagues on the foreign relations committee.

It was referred at once to the committee which is to continue in session tomorrow, probably with the Pepper proposal under discussion. It provides for modification of the proposal transmitted to the senate by President Harding in February, 1923, so as to transfer the election of judges from the council and assembly of the League of Nations to similar bodies appointed by signatories to the court statutes, and proposes the summoning of a third Hague conference to clarify and codify international law.

At its meeting today senate committee continued its general discussion of "underlying principles" without special reference to any of the formal plans before it. Those participating reported a strengthened activity that the views of the various groups within the committee could be reconciled to permit the reporting of a compromise, and suggestions of the form this might take coincided closely with the language of the Pepper proposal. The same object was sought also in a resolution during the day by Senator King, Democrat, Utah, who proposed adherence to the Harding plan, with definite amendments to protect the United States in the election of judges, pending representation and the rendition of advisory opinions.

GIRL IDENTIFIES HARRY HOFFMAN

Says He Is Man Into Whose Sedan
Mrs. Bauer Entered Before Being Murdered

New York, May 22. — Barbara
Fahs, 14, school girl today identified Harry Hoffman, on trial in the Richmond county court, charged with the murder of Mrs. Maude A. Bauer, as the man she saw in a Ford sedan in conversation with Mrs. Bauer at 2:40 on the afternoon of the murder.

The girl said she saw Hoffman called when the trial started.
When asked if the man she saw in the sedan was in the courtroom, the girl nodded in the affirmative and pointed to Hoffman.

"How do you know this is the same man?" the district attorney asked her.

"I recognize him by his hair and eyes and his complexion," the girl answered.
The young witness testified that she saw the man enter the sedan door and heard him tell Mrs. Bauer he would take her where she could get a rope to pull her car out of a ditch in which it stood. She said Mrs. Bauer then got into the sedan with the man and rode away. Counsel for Hoffman was unable to shake the testimony.

The first witness was Mrs. Catherine
Pero, mother of the murdered woman.
Mrs. Pero, when asked if she could identify Hoffman, said "I couldn't be sure."

HEALTHIEST CHILDREN NOW IN CITIES, NOT COUNTRY

By the Associated Press
London, May 22. — Towns, and not country, are the places to find the healthiest children, according to Dr.
T. H. Coker, in a report to the International conference on child health at London today. Dr. Coker, who is a school medical officer for the Birmingham district, finds "glorious Devon, no place for babies."
"The rural child," he writes, "has lost his heritage to the child living in the cities. Formerly one pictured the country child with a chubby face, pink cheeks, bright eyes and sturdy figure. Now you find many of the children in the country schools are thin, pale and sickly looking."

GEYSERS OF REAL BEER FROM CHICAGO MANHOLES

Chicago, May 22. — Geysers of real beer are bubbling up from manholes in a street in the vicinity of the Marshall building, furnished the bare fact by police investigation of advance warning of a contamination of beer.
More than 100,000 gallons of beer was drained from brewing vats. Chemical analyses showed a high alcohol content, but also a high content of sulphuric acid and other poisonous substances.
A report made by the police and chemical agents to close every brewery in northern Illinois manufacturing beer by closed distillation content will be the outcome of disclosures made in connection with the finding of a "hot spot" which caused the trouble.
The brewery was raided Monday and a huge quantity of beer was exposed according to federal agents.

FRANK BILLS DEAD MAN

Chicago, May 22. — Frank Bills, 30, was found dead in his apartment at 1111 North Dearborn street today. He was killed by a bullet which struck his head and passed through his brain. The bullet was fired from a .38 Smith & Wesson revolver. The man was found by a neighbor who called the police.
The man was a well-known figure in the neighborhood and was known to many of the residents.

COOLIDGE STILL SILENT AS TO TAX INTENTIONS

Mellon Confers With Him Again—Characterizes Bill as 'Most Unfortunate Piece of Legislation'

FORESEES SURPLUS

Greene Disagrees With Treasury
Head, Saying $138,000,000
Balance Will Be Had at End of Fiscal Year

Washington, May 22. — Administration forces clashed directly today on the pending tax reduction bill with President Coolidge's attitude still undetermined.

Secretary Mellon, high treasury official said, considered the bill a "most unfortunate piece of legislation." The treasury secretary conferred again with President Coolidge, who throughout has strongly favored the tax reduction plan proposed by the secretary.

At the same time, Republican leaders in congress as well as spokesmen of every faction there, voiced increased enthusiasm for the measure as it was whittled into final shape and the conference report prepared for the final approval. A majority expressed both the hope and belief that President Coolidge would sign the bill in its present form.

Greene Sees Surplus, Not Deficit

Secretary Mellon, it is understood, dislikes particularly the so-called "limb provisions" of the bill. These require that the name, address, and amount of tax paid by all federal taxpayers be made public and that the hearings before the proposed board of tax appeals be opened to the public, although the treasury department is known to have several bills that the bill has carried reductions too far and that a deficit would result.

As to the former objection, Republican leaders declared it was either this limited publicity or full publicity, as once had been approved by the senate.

Referring to the predictions of a treasury deficit under the bill, Chairman Greene of the house ways and means committee, declared in a statement today that the treasury actually would have a surplus for the fiscal year
of $138,000,000 under the bill.

sive. The purchase was made out of a total authorized amount of $15, 620,000 worth of certificates.
The proceeds of the certificates will be used by the New York Central and Michigan Central lines, the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago & St. Louis railroad, the Cincinnati & Northern Ohio railway, and the Cincinnati, Louisville & Eastern Ohio railway, to pay for not more than 75 per cent of the cost of new railway equipment to be bought by these roads. The equipment to be purchased includes 16,275 freight cars, 305 passenger cars and 100 locomotives.

PRESIDENT'S COLD WORSE; ENGAGEMENTS CANCELLED

Washington, May 22. — President Coolidge's bronchial cold not only has refused to yield to treatment as expected but grew worse today with the result that he cancelled most of his engagements and found himself unable to hold with Mrs. Coolidge in resolving at the second of the White House garden parties.
Mr. Coolidge returned early in the week to his summer home, the cold,
which he contracted at the first garden party a week ago today, and the first dinner at the White House, was cancelled.

The Day in Washington

The McNary-Hangen bill was debated in the house.
The Wheeler indictment drew the senate into another day of debate.
It was indicated that Secretary Mellon would recommend a veto of the tax bill.

President Coolidge addressed the national recreation conference which he called.
Oklahoma filed in the supreme court a protest against the report of the Texas-Oklahoma boundary commission.

John W. H. Crimmon, special assistant to the attorney general, defended the integrity of Harry M. Daugherty before the Daugherty committee.
Ratification of the liquor treaty with Great Britain was completed at the state department and it was declared in force by presidential proclamation.

A composite plan for American adherence to the World court was laid before the senate in a resolution drafted by Senator Pepper, Republican, Pennsylvania.

Recommendation that the Pittsburgh plus steel price fixing plan be abolished was made to the federal trade commission in a brief filed by the commission's attorney.

Secretary Wilbur in a report to the house naval committee said the comparative strength of the British, American, and Japanese navies appeared to be respectively:

STATE D. A. V. OPENS ANNUAL CONVENTION

Discuss Lambert Bill Designed to Aid Dependents of Men Who Died in Service

Albany, May 22. — New York state's World War wounded, organized as the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, opened their third annual convention here today. After the various informal reunions and recountings of experiences with the American Expeditionary Forces overseas, State Commander Dr. George Calvert of Syracuse, who was blinded by a machine gun bullet at Chateau-Thierry, called to order the first session. Major George Shuler, treasurer of New York state, welcomed the delegates
in the name of the state and Mayor William S. Hackett extended the freedom of the city.

After a brief discussion of the Lambert bill designed to provide an appropriation of $1,500,000 for dependents of men who died in the service, and which was passed by the assembly but was lost in the closing rush of the last legislature, further business was put over until tomorrow morning. A committee, however, visited the offices of State Comptroller James W. Flannigan to plead for his assistance in bringing about enactment of the Lambert measure into law.

Dr. Calvert was a guest of honor at a banquet tendered by members of the Albany chapter, Disabled American Veterans, tonight.

YOUNG TEACHER SHOT TO DEATH

Body Found in Shallow Trench With Seven Gun Wounds
in Her Breast

Andover, Mass., May 22. — The body of Miss Louise French, 19, village school teacher, was found today in a shallow grave in a pasture half a mile from the village. There were seven bullet wounds in her breast,
her watch and ring were missing.

residence here early Wednesday evening to go to the post office and did not return, it was not until she failed to appear at school this morning that her absence caused anxiety.

Traces were found and after several hours one of those found footprints and signs of a struggle in a muddy road not far from the village, and from this spot the trail, apparently as though the something had been dragged, led into the pasture. A thin of the ground was covered with leaves.

Miss French has been teaching in Andover for several years. The police believe the motive for the murder was robbery.

AVIATORS WILL REST WEEK IN WORLD FLIGHT

Planes, Although in Excellent Condition, Will Be Given Thorough Overhauling Before
Resuming Trip

COVER WORST PART

Rest of Journey Is Comparatively Easy — Flyers Have Covered
6,575 Miles From California in 90 Flying Hours

(By the Associated Press.)
Kasumigaura, Japan, May 22.—Three American army airplanes, having flown across the Pacific for the first time in the history of aviation, tonight nestled on the Japanese naval flying field here for a week's breathing spell preparatory to a continuance of their attempt to circumnavigate
the globe by air.

Great crowds of curious Japanese gathered about the aviation field for a glimpse of the sturdy planes and daring aviators.

The visiting aviators arrived at 5:40 o'clock this afternoon, having made the jump from Hickam air base, Hawaii, to Kasumigaura, 350 miles in 13 hours, 50 minutes, flying time.
They made one stop of about two hours at Minato for lunch.

The Americans and their planes were in excellent condition upon their arrival but it has been decided to rest a week here. This will give time for a thorough overhauling of the aircraft and also permit the officers to visit Tokyo, which is only 50 miles south.

Cover 6,575 Miles in 90 Hours.
With the landing here today, the first and most difficult portions of the around-the-world journey have ended. From Kasumigaura the next jump will be to Kishimoto, 350 miles south, at the extremity of the main island. It is a small airport situated on a rocky irregular coast. Kishimoto is next to the last stopping place in Japan. The aviators will say farewell to the empire at Kagothima at the southern end of the southern island of Kyushu.

From Kagothima the Americans will make their next long water jump to Canton in Shanghai.

The American aviators, when they reached here today, had covered the last part of the earth's circumference hitherto untraveled by air. From Clover field, Santa Monica, Cal., they have reeled off 6,575 miles in 90 hours of flying time.

AUTO CRASHES INTO GROUP OF CHILDREN; ONE MAY DIE

Janetown, May 22. — Four children were injured, one badly, today when a car, driven by a man who threw into the Chadsok river, was not hurt, this afternoon when Mrs.
Mary Montagna lost control of an automobile and ran onto the sidewalk in front of St. James' Catholic school and into a crowd of children who had just marched from the building in fire drill. The woman was arrested and is being held on an open charge pending the outcome of the seriously injured boy's trials.

Police, who took the car after the accident, said the brakes were practically worthless. The children were practically motionless near the river bank and three of them were pushed into the water in their wild scramble to get out of the path of the automobile.
The woman was driving slowly. Mike Schiavone, the boy who may die, his liver is punctured.

ADMIRAL OUTRANKS GENERAL

Washington, May 22. — For a second time the attorney general has settled a dispute as to the relative rank of army and navy commanding officers in Hawaii. Because of a shift in personnel since the last ruling the question was referred to Washington and Attorney General Stone decided that Rear Admiral McDonald out-ranks Major General Cummings and will take precedence over him in ceremonies incident to the forthcoming visit of a British naval squadron to the islands.

BONUS PAYMENTS SHOW IMPROVEMENT

Workers Becoming Accustomed to Duties — Veterans Can Help, Says Bureau

Albany, May 22. — It is not going to take 21 years, nor half that time, for the state to pay out the $45,000,
000 bonus, Adjutant General
Westcott, chairman of the bonus commission, said today in a statement
taking issue with calculations who said Monday that at the rate the payments were being made babies in arms would probably be voters by the time the last check was mailed by the state treasurer.

Payments are to be speeded up, the adjutant general said. He explained that about 100 employees are at work on the applications, that the bonus bureau, under the direction of Captain Frank S. Harris of this city, has been in operation two weeks, and that the progress so far made had been entirely satisfactory to the state bonus commission.

The number of applications approved each day has not been as large as it will be a little later, because of the necessity of instructing
each employee in his duties.

Veterans Can Help.
"Any man organization," General Westcott said, "must of course proceed slowly at first, until the employees become familiar with their duties.
The experience of other states has been that a force of this size should be able to approve 1,000 applications
a day."

General Westcott stated that the New York bonus bureau would reach this figure next week, and he expects the bureau will be approving applications at the rate of 2,000 a day within the next month. "The veterans," he said, "can hasten the payment of their claims by exercising greater care
in making out their applications.
Many veterans failed to answer all of the questions which apply to them.
They fail to sign the application, fail to execute the oath, and fail to have the oath as to identity and residence executed. Copies of discharges, including photostatic copies, must be certified as being true and correct copies by a person authorized to administer an oath, in order to be acceptable as evidence of service."

PRESBYTERIANS SEEK ECONOMY

Would Cut Size of General Assembly About Half of the Present Membership

Grand Rapids, May 22. — While the Presbyterian general assembly,
now in session, with its nearly 1,400 commissioners, is of such a size as to tax the seating capacity of the average church, future general as-semblies will be a less unwieldy body if the proposal presented today by a special committee on the reduction of the size to the general assembly becomes a church law. The report is signed by Dr. William L. McEwan of Pittsburgh, chairman. It recommends a change in the Presbyterian form of government which would reduce the membership of the general assembly approximately one-half.

The committee reviews what it terms inequalities and injustices in representation of the Presbyteries and proposed readjustments intended to prevent a lot of small presbyteries from having as large a representation in assembly as have the great presbyteries.

The purpose of the committee's proposal is to enable the assembly to meet in church which it can not now enter because of its size, to be entertained in smaller communities,
and also to make the assembly more of a deliberative body and less of an expense to the denomination.

Dr. Clarence E. McCartney of Philadelphia was elected moderator. Dr.
McCartney won on the first ballot from Dr. Charles Erdman of Princeton, N. J., the vote being: McCartney
444; Erdman 446.

CHANCELLOR FLINT BECOMES COLONEL IN RESERVE CORPS

(By the Associated Press.)
Syracuse, May 22. — The attitude of Chancellor Flint toward the Syracuse university toward the war of radical pacifist sentiment through the universities and churches of this country was revealed clearly today when he was sworn in as a colonel in the United States army reserve corps as a result of an application made on his own initiative. The war of student pacifism struck Syracuse university a few weeks ago when a number of prominent undergraduates organized a peace league and sought to spread propaganda against the university. R. O. T. C.
Chancellor Flint's application for enlistment in the reserve corps came as a result of a questionnaire sent out by the war department to him as head of an institution supporting a R. O. T. C.
Among the questions was one asking whether he would accept a commission in the corps. He answered in the affirmative and made an application.

CHILDREN START FLEE

Midwood, May 22. — The Boys Bowed, a recreational resort of 16 rooms, located at New Vernon, six miles west of here, was destroyed by fire late this afternoon at an estimated loss of over $20,000. Children playing with matches in the attic, are known to have started the blaze.

Twenty-five guests, the majority of them telephone operators, were in the resort to rest by the New York Telephone company, removed their personal property and some of the furniture. No one was injured.

DEPER TANNERY SELECTION

New York, May 22. — The committee of Tannery hall tomet July 16 on the tannery date is act upon the selection of a new leader.

BOY KIDNAPPED THEN MURDERED BODY LOCATED

Head Crushed and Body Stripped of All Means of Identification Found in Swamp Outside of Chicago

WOULD PAY RANSOM

Parents Await Instruction How to Pay $10,000 Demanded to Men When They Receive
News of Slaying

Chicago, May 22. — Kidnapped and held for $10,000 ransom and murdered when the kidnappers believed their plans were about to miscarry,
the nude body of Robert Franks, 14,
son of Jacob Franks, millionaire Chicago manufacturer, was found in a swamp on the south side of the city today with the head crushed and the body stripped of all means of identification.

At the time the body was found,
the parents, unaware of the fate of their son, were awaiting a visit from the kidnappers in order to turn over the money to them, having followed the instructions of the abductors to the letter, even to refraining from notifying the police. Tonight one of the greatest manhunt in Chicago's history was underway with more than 5,000 policemen and detectives scouring the city in the search for the slayers. Despite the meager clues it was reported that arrests were imminent.

Young Franks was last seen alive
yesterday afternoon about 3:30 o'clock when he left several companions after umpiring a ball game at the Harvard school, a private institution, where he was a student. He told companions he was going home.

Were Following Instructions.
The parents, alarmed over the failure of Robert to arrive home, communicated with the school authorities and an unsuccessful search was started but at 10:30 o'clock the first inkling of the boy's fate reached them.

This came in the form of a telephone call from the Franks home from a man who said his name was John son.

"Your boy has been kidnapped,"
the man told Franks. "He is here with me and is all right. I will call you again and you will have what you must do."

Before he could be questioned, the receiver clicked. At 5:30 o'clock this morning Mr. Franks received a special delivery letter from the kidnappers, which had been mailed in the down town section at midnight.

"Your boy is safe," the letter said,
"and you need not worry. But if you let the police know, we will kill him.
If you have already informed the police, do not go any further."
"We want $10,000 ransom,"
"We will telephone you today at 6 o'clock. Then we will give you all necessary information as to how you are to put the money in our possession."

BASEBALL AS BIG LEAGUERS PLAY IT

What do you consider to be the outfielder's greatest asset?

Answered by GEORGE BURNS

Outfielder, Cincinnati Reds. Now starting his sixteenth year of professional baseball. A wizard in sliding and grounders in the outfield.

Thinking out the possibilities of a play in advance and knowing just what to do with the ball if it comes to you is the outfielder's greatest asset. He must constantly have in his head mental pictures of what may happen when the next ball is pitched and be ready for any emergency.

The outfielder must be a handy man for backing up the infield on hard hit balls which are impossible for infielders to get. The outfielder should always remember one maxim, "You can't make mistakes by holding the ball in the outfield."

BASEBALL NOTES

Dennis Gairlin of the New York

Giants is the smallest pitcher in the major league.

With the exception of the second week in the season, the Yankees led the American league all last year.

Joseph Heckle, star pitcher of the Syracuse university team last year, has been signed by the Detroit Tigers.

Manager McGraw will not let his athletes play golf, probably on the theory that golfers seldom get home.

Pat Malone, pitcher, last year with

Toledo, has been obtained by Minneapolis of the American association, from the New York Giants.

John McGraw admits that pitching is his problem. He says there will be nothing to it but the Giants if his team gets fair pitching.

Jack Hendricks, forty-eight years of age, the new manager of the Cincinnati Nationals, has been managing ball clubs for the past 19 years.

Moe Berg of the 1923 Princeton nine has joined the Brooklyn Robins. He was with the team following his graduation from the university last season.

Old Hank Gowdy is working a regular turn behind the bat for the Giants and shows no signs of slipping. The servant is quite agile and still can throw.

Frank ("Pinky") Rodie, former White

Sox and Yankees outfielder, has been purchased by the Los Angeles Western league club from the Vernon Pacific Coast league management.

Ralph Bone's record of 31 feet for the 16-pound shotput, made Aug. 21, 1900, has never been broken.

Jack Dempsey's first recorded fight was with Kid Hickock in 1913. Dempsey knocked him out in one round.

Franklin was in the two heavyweight classes in boxing at Harvard university recently. There were half a dozen knockouts in the bout.

Vol. Fernandez, a Cuban living at Roxbury, Mass., is a candidate for the Olympic boxing team at 126 pounds.

The world's world record for putting

YOST BEGAN CAREER AT WEST VIRGINIA

Famous Coach Was Mountaineers' Star Years Ago.

The University of West Virginia has been producing first-rate eleven since the early thirties. In fact, it was in 1907 that the Mountaineers turned out probably their greatest football hero, none other than "Harry" Yost, famous coach of the University of Michigan. Not many present-day followers of the game know that Yost was born at Fairview, only twenty miles from Morgantown, and that he really became a great player at West Virginia in 1904.

Last year's invasion of the West by the Mountaineers has sent the Morgantown historians burrowing into the archives, and they have emerged with several interesting facts about Yost as a player at West Virginia. He saw his first football game on the Morgantown campus, and during the seasons of 1904, 1905, 1906 and 1907 was one of the big stars of the team. During those years West Virginia was represented by some of its most famous eleven.

In the 1906 season, an amusing incident in Yost's career took place. West Virginia and another rival were scheduled to play three gridiron games in four days. The first was at Fairmont on a Friday, the next at Parkersburg on Saturday and the third at Wheeling on Monday. Yost was such a spectacular star in the game that after the third contest the rival team loaded him onto the train and took him back with them. Eligibility rules in those days were not the obstacles they are now and the "kidnappers" saw nothing wrong in borrowing West Virginia's star player for an important game the following Saturday.

But Yost couldn't see the scheme and got back to Morgantown as soon as possible. According to the story told at Morgantown, however, the West Virginia players refused to let him play for several weeks because of his "desertion." Yost came back, however, and the following year, his last in the university, he reached his greatest heights as a player.

Even at that, Morgantown folks say that the 1907 eleven was no better than the 1919 aggregation, which, with the great Rodgers in the backfield, defeated Princeton on the Tigers' own field. The 1922 team did not lose a game this season.

Gettysburg Students Help

Each of the 600 students of Gettysburg (Pa.) college has volunteered to shovel a wagonload of dirt and to give $1 as his contribution to the new memorial field. The new field will consist of a gridiron and a baseball diamond, each being independent of the other.

Largest Swimming Pool

The largest swimming pool in the world is in San Francisco. It is 1,000 feet long and 100 feet wide, except for a center portion, which is 300 feet wide, to provide for a racing course across the pool. The depth varies from 3 to 14 feet and the cost of the pool was $90,000.

Immense Amount to Be Spent for Golf

A golf statistician estimates that a total of approximately $700,000,000 will be spent by golfers this year. He figures as follows: Dues, $100,000,000; automobile tires, $100,000,000; golf apparel, $50,000,000; caddies, $40,000,000; golf balls, $30,000,000; golf property, $25,000,000; construction work, $25,000,000; club salaries, $25,000,000; golf resort hotels, $25,000,000; clubhouse, $20,000,000; travel, $20,000,000; golf sticks, $15,000,000; seeds, $5,000,000; tuition, $5,000,000; club furnishings, $5,000,000; course equipment, $5,000,000; lockers, $3,000,000; golf bags, $2,000,000; beverages, $2,000,000; golf architects, $1,000,000.

It is further estimated that $2,000,000,000 worth of automobiles will be used by golfers during the year, and that $1,000,000,000 will be expended on and because of golf alone.

Meaning of Epiphany

The name "Epiphany" means manifestation and in the Christian church the feast of the Epiphany celebrates the visit of the magi or wise men to the infant Jesus at Bethlehem, and the manifestation of Christ as the Savior of the world.

GIANTS' ROOKIE IS AMONG TOPNOTCHERS

Pitcher Dean Won 21 Games for Louisville Last Year.

Wayland Dean, who was sold to the Giants, is a Huntington, W. Va., boy. He is an admirably-built chap with a right-arm delivery and can stand a great deal of work. He uses overhead, side-arm and underhand services in pitching, and this variety of deliveries adds to his effectiveness.

Often pitchers try all three of these services, but generally only one of them is natural. Dean throws with as much ease and effect one way as another.

Woodson Moss, a hotel manager at Winchester, Ky., and a lifelong friend of Captain Neal, recommended Dean to the captain in 1921 and, after seeing Dean pitch, the captain signed him to a 1922 contract. Mr. Moss also recommended Combs to Louisville. Dean was a pitcher on an independent team at Winchester in 1921.

He was taken to the Mobile training camp of the Colonels in 1922 and shortly after the season opened was sent to Jack Martin's Daytona club of the Florida State league. Dean did not have such a whole of a year down there, winning eight games and losing six, but even in his defeats he was impressive and Joe McCarthy, Louisville manager, after watching the youngster work in three American association games after he had rejoined the Colonels near the close of the 1922 season, made the prediction that Dean would be the best moundman on the Louisville staff in 1923.

This prophecy came true, for Dean won 21 games and lost 8 and ranked next to Tom Sheehan as the most effective pitcher in the league. Dean worked in 36 games for a winning average of .724. He pitched 259 innings and pitched to 996 batsmen who gained 251 hits and 118 runs, 94 of the runs being earned. Dean gave 113 bases on balls and struck out 107 men. His earned run average was 3.27. Dean is twenty-one years old.

Baseball, Golf and Tennis Stars

Tyron Raymond Cogh, secretary of the Detroit Tigers and once a leader of big league business; Walter J. Country club, during the South Atlantic tennis tournament held there.

He Improves with Age

By Feg Murray

"Stubby" Kruger, of Hawaii and the Illinois Athletic club, is a remarkable swimmer. He is not only remarkable because of the records he makes or because he wins, but because he has been doing it for twelve years and now is better than ever. Kruger was in the sunlight in 1917 when he was breaking records for the straight crawl of 100 yards, and went to the 1920 Olympic games, where he swam in the 100 yard backstroke race but didn't place. He was relegated to the "fun boat" class, but made the most remarkable comeback in 1923, gaining 21 1/2 points in the relay swim, or more than twice his opponent's.

Kruger, besides holding eight world's backstroke records, the records for the 100 yard race, and being a member of the U. S. C. championships 200 and 400 yard relay teams, is the indoor and outdoor freestyle champion. Last April Kruger won all five events in the indoor pentathlon, the first time any swimmer had ever done this.

and won his first and only Olympic gold medal, the 100 yard backstroke, when he won much of his recent success in the Olympic game. He is not a water comedian, but when there is no winner, but to compete again in the backstroke race of 1923, Kruger can "crawl" 100 yards in 15 seconds.

O. H. S. CONCERT TONIGHT

Fourth Annual Appearance of High School Chorus Assisted by Academy Primary Grades This Evening.

While the advance sale of tickets for the fourth annual concert of the High school chorus has not been great, still it is thought certain that a large number will secure their tickets at the door this evening and attend what will certainly be the most finished performance ever given by the High school chorus. The admission charge is only 25 cents. To them an evening of pleasure as well as instruction in the results being attained in the musical department of the city schools is assured.

The program for the evening which was printed in The Star of Thursday, has been divided into two parts. The first a musical play which will be presented by the primary grades of the Academy street school and the second a concert by the High school chorus.

The entertainment is presented under the direction of Miss Mable Perry, supervisor of music for the city schools, assisted by Miss Lois Wagner and Allan E. Riedorff of the city school faculties. Perhaps no program of the year has been so carefully and earnestly prepared and certainly the students will have the hearty cooperation of their friends and patrons.

McDONALD WILL MAKE GOOD

Patron of Company Representative P. M. Chambers Gives Interesting Address at Regular Luncheon of Rotary Club.

That the McDonald Construction company is ready to do the right thing in regard to resurfacing Main street is clearly evident to those members of the Common Council and Board of Public Works who conferred yesterday with William McDonald and John P. McDonald, representing the company in regard to starting the work of putting the street in as good shape as Church and Center streets. There was no question on this part of the members McDonald in regard to the matter and their proposals indicated that they are ready and willing to fulfill their agreement even at a considerable sacrifice.

The construction men stated that Main street was laid with exactly the same materials as were used on Church and Center streets and were at a loss to explain why the surface had gone bad. The only explanation which they could advance was that the cold weather prevailing at the time the street was laid had caused the asphalt to harden before the roller could produce the necessary penetration.

William McDonald, head of the company, stated that he had laid more asphalt pavement than any other man in the United States and that this was the first job to go wrong. He said that, aside from the desire of the company to give Oneonta a first class job, they could not afford to fail to give satisfaction.

Mr. McDonald offered to resurface such portions of the street as are bad according to specifications and entirely at the company's expense or to provide for the defect to Third street, a sheet asphalt, a top much superior but ordinarily much more expensive than the specified top, at a slight additional price. He also offered, if this were done, to give a $50,000 bond to keep Main street, top and base alike, in repair for five years, and Church and Center street in repair for four years. Final action in the matter was deferred until a later meeting at which all the members of the board can be present.

All these at the meeting were much impressed with the sincerity of the company's desire to do the right thing in Oneonta and were surprised at the financial sacrifice which the McDonalds were willing to make. They laid all their cards on the table and appeared willing to do anything within reason. Work on the resurfacing will commence at once on the machinery and materials are on the ground. The work will take about three weeks, but only about half a block will be closed to traffic at any one time and then only for a few hours. The procedure will be to heat the pavement with a specially designed and quite wonderful heater, cut off the top surface, re-rake the asphalt and then lay the top.

The proposition to lay sheet asphalt over the brick on Chestnut street from Main to Academy was discussed but no action was taken. Mr. McDonald stated that he believed that by using the heater to draw all moisture out of the brick, then painting the brick and laying the asphalt, there was no reason why the pavement would not prove a satisfactory one. Several were of the opinion that the experiment would be well worth while.

FIRST BASEBALL PRACTICE

Many Fans Watch Manager Thomas and Six of His Men Work Out at Nehaw Park Yesterday.

The 1924 baseball season, destined in the belief of all aware of the facts in the case to be the most successful in the history of Oneonta, began unofficially yesterday afternoon when Manager Thomas and six of his players staged a stiff workout at Nehaw park in preparation for the strenuous days to come. A goodly delegation of fans watched the men who tossed the ball about and all were very favorably impressed with the workmanlike methods of Thomas and his men.

Those who worked out yesterday were Manager Thomas; Singstack, catcher; Walsh, pitcher; Harner, shortstop; Lober, first baseman; and Wilcox, outfielder. "Lefty" Davis and Roche are due to arrive this morning and it is expected that the remainder of the team will be in the city ready for the practice session to be held at 2 o'clock this afternoon.

It is expected that weather permitting, there will be practice every day until Memorial day, when the season will be formally opened with games with the Syracuse Olympics at 1:30 and 7:30 o'clock in the afternoon. The Olympics opened the season here last year and the year before and furnished stiff opposition each time.

The Social club of the Chapin Memorial church will hold a rummage sale in the McCrum Furniture store on Saturday beginning at 9 o'clock in connection with this sale, they will also have a dance at 11 o'clock. Will everyone that has anything for sale, kindly leave same in the McCrum Furniture store, not later than 6:30 this afternoon. Advt 11

MANUFACTURE OF GAS

Many interesting and instructive facts concerning the manufacture of the gas used by so many residents of Oneonta for lighting, cooking and heating purposes was given by P. Ralph Chambers, local manager of the New York State Gas and Electric corporation, in his address to his fellow Rotarians at the weekly luncheon yesterday of Oneonta Rotary club.

After tracing the history of the gas industry Mr. Chambers spoke of the two types of illuminating gas — coal gas, made by the destructive distillation of soft coal, and water gas, manufactured by forcing steam through red hot coal. Water gas is the type made at the local plant. The coal is burned in large receptacles, charged from the top and with a forced draft aiding combustion at the bottom. Live steam is forced through the coal and "blue gas" is the result. The only by-product is coal tar which is sold to concerns manufacturing road tar and roofing materials. This "blue gas" is treated with oil in the form of a fine spray, the oil adding most of the illuminating qualities. The sulphur is then removed and the gas is ready for storage and use.

Mr. Chambers spoke of the improvements being made at the plant and stated that last year the capacity of the main feeders was doubled. In speaking of the present prices of gas, which many had believed to be exorbitant, the speaker told of the increases since the war in the prices of all the raw materials needed in the manufacture and distribution of the gas. These prices, according to government reports which he quoted, have in most cases doubled and in many cases tripled.

An interesting fact brought out by Mr. Chambers was that during the last 50 years the use of gas for lighting and heating purposes has increased from 10 per cent of the total use to over 80 per cent.

The entertainment feature of the luncheon was the reception accorded William H. Lunn, who attended his first meeting since his recent marriage. Mr. Lunn was escorted to his seat by members of the Village Choir, who played a wedding march on combs, and several songs were sung for his benefit, including a series of clever parodies.

President Frank M. Gurney announced that the Board of Directors had promised Captain Louis M. Baker to adopt a squad of company G in accordance with the plan formulated by a committee to investigate what is required in the matter he appointed J. Bookhout, William H. Hoffman and William H. Lunn, all former members of the company.

B. C. Lauren was chosen as the delegate to the International Rotary convention to be held at Toronto in June and A. E. Riedorff was chosen as the alternate.

Guests at the luncheon were, Stuart M. Keenan and Fred H. Breses of Oneonta, Fred E. Wright of Springfield, Mass., and Rotarians C. N. Blanchard of Rochester and Ray W. Sherman of Elmira.

TWO MORE SCOUT TROOPS

American Legion to Organize Troop This Evening—Secretary E. J. MacLean to Lead.

Two meetings for the organization of Boy Scout troops in the city are to be held tonight and apparently the interest in the movement is leaping ahead in Oneonta. While troops had been in existence here for several years, still the benefits of Scouting had been limited to a few and the awakening of general interest is quite encouraging. To Scout Executive Louis Hornbeck, of the Otsego-Schoharie council, who makes his headquarters in this city and who has given considerable time and effort to the work in the city.

The troop which the Oneonta post of the American Legion is to sponsor will be organized at a meeting to be held at the Y. M. C. A. this evening at 7:30 o'clock and all boys of the city who are interested in this troop are invited to the meeting. Commander DeLaMater of the post will be in charge of the meeting and Executive Hornbeck will assist him in presenting the true scope of Scouting to the meeting.

Secretary MacLean of the Chamber of Commerce has taken over the troop formerly led by Scout Commissioner Riedorff, who has left the city, and with Stuart Keenan and Damon German as assistant scoutmasters will take up active work for that organization.

A meeting for the performing of the troop will be held at the Community house this evening at 7:30 o'clock and the Scoutmaster and assistant will begin the work of familiarizing themselves with the needs of the troop and of forming plans to hold the interest of the members of the troop while they receive their Scout work. Mr. Hornbeck also plans to assist in the evening.

HOTEL FIRE AT PINE LAKE

Fire of Unknown Origin Does Much Damage — Loss Estimated at $2,000 — Formerly Sherman Lake Hotel.

At about 9 o'clock yesterday morning a fire which had already gained much headway was seen by workmen at the Pine Lake pavilion and dance hall to have broken out in the kitchen part of the new hotel at that place. The workmen at once rushed to the scene of the fire, and at first with chemicals and after these were exhausted by forming a bucket brigade, succeeded in extinguishing the blaze. Not until much damage had been done. In the work of fighting the fire 15 workmen were greatly assisted by neighbors from West Oneonta and Lansing.

Fireman service in saving the building from complete destruction. It is stated that about half of the building was destroyed, and an early estimate gives the loss at about $2,000, which may be considerably increased when a more careful inventory is made. The loss is covered by insurance.

In fighting the fire high credit for heroism is due to Henry Kierman, an employe on the property, who at the risk of his life went up the stairs, laid and chopped a hole through the second floor into the kitchen. Down this water was passed by the bucket brigade, and the fire finally put out. Mr. Kierman, who was badly burned on hands, face and shoulders, collapsed after the fire was out and was carried down by others. Later he recovered and will probably suffer no permanent injury.

The new proprietor of the property, formerly known as Sherman lake, is Harry Styles, under whose direction the workmen are doing their best to have the dance hall finished by Decoration day. This work will be rushed, and it is believed that no changes will be necessary in plans for the opening. Afterward they will turn their attention to hotel building repairs.

The origin of the fire is unknown, as no one was in what is known as the new hotel at the time. It is believed, however, that it may have started from the kitchen stove, in which there had been a fire earlier in the day. Mr. Styles expresses great gratitude for the assistance given by employes and neighbors in saving the entire property at the lake from destruction.

TRI-COUNTY UNDERTAKERS

Representatives of Oswego, Delaware and Schuylkill met at Cooperstown to elect officers.

The Tri-County Undertakers' Association met Wednesday evening at the Hotel Westville, where a business meeting was held, followed by a banquet.

The meeting was called to order at 8:30 with President Tillapaugh presiding. The following officers were elected for the year: President, W. H. Stillwell, Hartwick; Vice President, J. J. Bookhout, Oneonta; Secretary and Treasurer, W. T. Kothery, Oneonta; Trustees for three years, Leon Lappas, Sharon Springs; John Brown, Cooperstown; Lewis White, Hobart.

James A. Maxwell of Hartwick and Earl L. Georgia of Oneonta were accepted as members of the association. The members accepted an invitation from Mr. Bookhout to hold their next meeting at his camp at Chittenden some time this fall.

After the meeting a sumptuous dinner was served to the members and their wives. Too much credit cannot be given the management for the courtesy and service received at the Fenimore.

The newly elected officers each gave an appropriate talk pertaining to the association.

The speakers of the evening were Rev. Einar Bohne Ebbott and Harris L. Cooke, Esq. Mr. Ebbott used as his theme, "Look Into the Mirror, Not the Yesterday," which was very much appreciated, while Mr. Cooke kept the gathering in good humor with stories for which he is famous. Mr. Tillapaugh of Schenectady and Mr. Higbie of Equinunk, Pa., gave interesting talks and original stories, which were much enjoyed.

Several popular songs were in order, led by I. J. (Humpty) Dumpty. Bookhout, assisted by Miss Helen Wood, pianist of Dewey's Imperial orchestra. Miss Wood also rendered several piano solos.

Bouquets of sweet peas were given the guests through the courtesy of Mr. De Vyver of River Street greenhouse, Oneonta. An enjoyable evening was spent by all and those unable to attend missed a very good time.

D. & H. STOCK GOES TO NEW HIGH

Rail Shares Soar on Report of Segregation - 114 is Reached.

The New York Times of Thursday has an article concerning the spectacular advance of Delaware & Hudson stock, which on the previous day reached the highest level for the year. The article, which will be of general interest in Oneonta, where the Susquehanna Division shops are located, and where much stock of the company is owned, is as follows:

"Shares of the Delaware & Hudson reached a new high for the year on the New York Stock Exchange Wednesday, as the result of reports that the coal and the railroad properties of the company would be segregated soon. According to the reports, which have been in circulation for two days, the segregation will be along the line of that of the Reading company and the Lehigh Valley.

The price of the common stock at the opening yesterday was 109 1/2. It advanced steadily within the first hour to 114, and then declined to 112 1/2, closing the day at 113. It was unshaken by a statement issued by L. F. Loree, president of the company, in which he said: "Ever since I came to the property, in 1907, there have been rumors of every sort about it, and I am tired of denying them."

Youth and beauty are at your command

I made myself a famous beauty. For I taught it after the day when, as a 25 year old woman, I have played a part in the life of many a young man. I have kept that beauty, have kept it in my own hands, in my own control. At a grandmother's age I retain my own beauty, my own youth, my own youthfulness.

I owe this to four great beauty helps, perfected by French experts. They form a beauty system, a beauty system. I believe, the greatest beauty help in the world. They have brought to many of my friends just what they brought to me. I am convinced that millions can take like benefits from them. So I am now placing these supreme helps at every woman's call.

TOWN IN ITALY HAS HAD MANY LANDSLIPS

Amalfi, Scene of Recent Disaster, Popular Resort.

Washington, D. C.—"Amalfi has had slides before," says a bulletin from the Washington (D. C.) headquarters of the National Geographical society concerning the picturesque little Italian town about which there have recently been disastrous landslips. "The sea has been remorseless in eating under the red rock cliff on which the town and its neighboring villages perch," continues the bulletin; "but more important has been Amalfi's figurative slip from its position as the world's first naval power to comparative obscurity and unimportance."

"The Amalfi district just south of Naples is one of the most beautiful, scenically, of Italy's beauty spots. A collection of views showing quaint Old World villages clinging to cliff sides could hardly escape including Amalfi. It seems the archetype of them all. The rough red cliffs spring steeply from the sea along this coast, and it must have been a daring builder who first conceived the idea of planting his structure there. But there they have clung for more than a thousand years, and when the sea, at times, has swallowed some of the buildings, the people of the region have stubbornly built others farther up the precipitous slopes."

City "Piled Upon Itself."

"Hans Christian Anderson, who between fairy tales wrote charmingly of Italy's lovely scenery, described Amalfi in a phrase when he called it 'a city singularly piled upon itself.' Its little streets run not among, but through, the houses, and some of its dark, tortuous passages must be lighted in midday. Its main street with its curious archways gives a touch of the Orient. Behind the town in a deep ravine is the picturesque 'glen of the mills' where a rolling stream leaps toward the sea in cascade after cascade, driving the machinery of dozens of clanking paper mills. Paper making is one of the main industries of Amalfi, and in addition there are the inevitable macaroni factories, and soap-making plants."

"It is difficult to realize that little Amalfi, precariously stuck upon its cliffs, with a population of only about 5,000, was once a wealthy independent city-state whose might was recognized throughout the Near East. In the Middle Ages before Venice and Genoa and Pisa rose to power, Amalfi was the great mercantile and naval power of the Mediterranean. Its traders started the order of St. John, later the Knights of Malta. Its fleet was the scourge of the Saracens in the trying days when their boats preyed on Mediterranean commerce. Under the city's doges a maritime court was maintained whose code was the acknowledged maritime law of Europe for centuries. And as a further contribution to the nautical world an Amalfitan citizen is believed to have invented the mariners' compass, whose north-seeking needle, though known to the Chinese, was not previously used for navigation."

Long Fight Against Sea.

"Ribbons of highway skirt the cliffs in the Amalfi district, rising over ridges, and falling into hollows, turning sharp corners and dodging into and out of little tunnels. Always below lies the blue Mediterranean and tied together by the balustraded highway are charming little villages. It was among these villages and towns clustered about Amalfi—Atrani, Minori, Furore, Positano—that greatest damage was suffered in the recent landslide."

"Amalfi's decline from its high medieval state is partly traceable to the inroads the sea has made upon it. The sea began to undermine the lower parts of the town in the Twelfth century, and about the same time came subjection from the Norman rulers of Sicily and Naples. In 1343 came a terrible inundation which destroyed most of the town and its harbor. From then the decline was rapid, and before long the city of 50,000 inhabitants had shrunk to one-tenth its former size. But picturesque and beauty have clung to Amalfi as tenaciously as Amalfi has clung to its cliffs. Nothing can shake these aspects. Boat loads of tourists sail from Naples and Capri to enter what is left of Amalfi's harbor and admire its beauties from the sea; while other sightseers drive down along the shelving highways to enjoy the view of the picture. High over the climbing town cliffs command incomparable views. Guests, forewarned, barely escaped from some of these aerialike hostelryes."

Genius and Science.

If genius is merely a greater supply of blood vessels to the brain, science may yet provide a greater supply of blood vessels.

When Words Mean Little.

Fable of the Unusual Cop.

Once there was a traffic cop who was kind and considerate and who never failed, when the engine died on the street, to come over and say, "That's too bad. But don't get excited. Take your time getting her out. The people behind don't mind." The copier died from being threatened by motorists.—Motor Age.

Back Yard Garden and Its Problems

Soil, Seeds, Sunshine, Moisture and Brains Among Essentials.

Records kept through a period of several years by about 300 cottage gardeners indicated, or proved rather, that a well-cultivated vegetable garden paid them at the rate of about 35 cents an hour for their labor and on an average basis the returns at market prices were about $250 an acre. Not all the gardens yielded at this rate, many of them not half that amount, but a considerable number gave higher results so that the average for those recorded was about $35 from a tenth-acre garden.

Results like the above are seldom obtained in general farming or truck growing and come only from intensive cultivation. Of all the land under cultivation, however, the cottage or home garden should be handled the most intensively and large yields secured. According to the garden experts of the United States Department of Agriculture, there are a few very important points in the management of a dividend-paying home garden.

Five ingredients, soil, seeds, sunshine, moisture and brains, must be carefully and painstakingly blended in order to make the garden pay the highest dividends. Without each one of the ingredients the mixture will fall flat and be recorded among the list of failures, but with all five harmoniously blended and backed by a reasonable amount of work, the results are in nine cases out of ten most satisfactory. The soil may be anything from rocks to fine sandy or silt loam or a mixture of all of them. Any soil that is not too homeless may be made to produce, if enough manure, fertilizers, lime, wood ashes and labor are expended upon it. Usually it is the lot of the cottage gardener to take whatever in the way of soil and location fate has allotted to him and then make the best of it. Manure and wood ashes are hard to obtain, but commercial fertilizers and lime can be had in abundance. The labor he can supply himself and credit it to much-needed exercise if he feels so inclined. Dead weeds, leaves, street sweepings, where they do not contain oil, also refuse from the kitchen may be worked into the soil to add organic matter.

Good seeds are just as essential as good soil. Why go to all the trouble of getting the soil in condition if something worth while is not planted upon it? Where can good seeds be procured? Almost anywhere, of well-established seed dealers, but there is a great difference in seeds and it pays to get the best even though the cost is a little higher. If the garden is to pay dividends the crops must be planted at the proper time and seeds should be ordered early and be on hand when wanted for planting.

After pounding away at the fort with artillery for a day and a night, a bombardment which made sad havoc with the ramshackle old stockade, Proctor ordered up a storming party. The fire of Croghan's Kentucky riflemen tore great gaps in the redoubts' line, but they rushed forward bravely until they reached the dry moat which surrounded the fort.

But Croghan was prepared for just such an attack. "Old Betty" had been mounted in a corner blockhouse overlooking the ditch and at this moment a mangle port-hole was uncovered and the little six-pounder poured forth a withering fire at point-blank range. The ditch became a slaughter pen. The storming party broke and fled. After this repulse Proctor gave up the fight. His total loss had been nearly 300 men. The American casualties were one killed and seven wounded.

Wobbling Wheel Is "Eyesore" to Any Driver

If there's one thing that's bound to catch the eye of any driver, no matter how unobtrusive otherwise, it's a wobbling wheel of a car ahead or the crippled front "railer" of a machine approaching. All who witness these phenomena of danger prophesy trouble ahead for the owner.

But the owner seldom learns the truth about the condition of his own wheels because he is busy speculating about the crooked courses the wheels of passing cars are taking.

Early and Late Sparks Are Designation Terms

Early spark and late spark are merely terms to designate how the spark is timed by manipulation of the spark control lever, early spark meaning spark occurring a trifle before the beginning of power stroke of each piston, caused by advancing the spark lever; and late spark meaning spark occurring at the beginning or a trifle after beginning of power stroke and caused by retarding the spark lever.

Find Easy Chair Helps Increase Plant's Output

London.—Complete relaxation in easy chairs is the form of "rest pause" which gives the best results in increasing the factory worker's output. This conclusion was reached after experiments which are described in the report issued recently by the industrial fatigue research board.

Output increased 9.3 per cent after 15 minutes of this "absolute" rest in a two hours' spell of work. The result of an "uncontrolled" rest, in which the workers usually smoked and chatted, was an increase of 8.5. Music increased the output 3.9 per cent; tea, 3.4 per cent, and a walk, 1.5 per cent. Observation in factories showed that systematic rest pauses were almost always followed by a slight but genuine increase of output, especially by the slowest workers.

Greasing of Rear Axle Can Be Done Very Quick

Here is a method of putting lubricant into the rear axle in double quick time: Put a common funnel in the filler hole of the axle. Remove the cap and mangle from the end of the grease gun, opening the whole front end of the gun. Put the end of the grease gun in the wide end of the funnel and hold it firmly while screwing up the handle in the ordinary way. The grease will shoot into the axle in jig time, and a rinsing with kerosene and wiping with a bit of waste will remove all traces of the operation from the funnel.

Bird Sets Fire to House; Children Solve Mystery

Charleston, W. Va.—George Sharp's McCormick street residence was slightly damaged by a blaze recently. "Do you know what caused the fire?" a fire department lieutenant asked Sharp. Sharp didn't, but one of his children did. An inquisitive bird pulled a string from a burning trash pile and flew to its nest under the eaves of the house.

A REAL Musical Event

For three years now the annual concert of the Oneonta High School Musical clubs has been an event eagerly awaited by music lovers in the city and that the fourth annual concert to be held this evening will be given before a crowded house is evident from the large advance sale of tickets.

This year the Academy Street school grades are assisting in the program and will give as part one an operetta entitled, "On a May Day Morning, Early," by Miss Margaret J. McElroy. This is a very pretty operetta which is certain to please.

The second half of the program will be the annual concert of the Musical clubs, which include the best talent in the school. A long series of rehearsals has developed the clubs into a singing organization of exceptional ability. The numbers on the program have been selected with great care and include selections of many different types.

BREAKING THE ICE

"I've just heard an expression which interested me greatly," said Mr. Sun.

"Tell it to us, please, Mr. Sun," said the Sun Fairies. "We wonder whether or we have ever heard the expression or not."

"This was it," said Mr. Sun. "Some people were planning a party. And they suggested to each other all sorts of things which would make the party start off with a vim and dash and all that sort of thing."

"They said that when people first got together at a party, or anything like that, they were apt to be a little shy at first."

"Later on the guests would be able to amuse themselves and each other and have a beautiful time, but at first these people were making all sorts of plans for games and pleasures which would get everyone started right off in having a good time."

"They were planning to arrange spiderwebs over the house and gave each one a spiderweb to unravel."

"They wound the balls of twine in and about the legs of tables and chairs, and all over objects which would not easily fall off or break. For the one who got to the end of the spiderweb first won a prize, and toward the end it was apt to get very exciting, as one could see the end of one's web in sight."

"And when hurrying something was apt to be broken, so the safe way for the ones spinning the webs in the first place to see that they wound them about good strong objects."

"Yes, I heard them explaining all of this."

"But they said the spiderwebs— which really meant balls of string wound about things for the guests to unwind as fast as they could and wind up again—would start everything going well."

"And then came the expression which I thought was so interesting."

"Yes," said the Sun Fairies. "we are ready to hear it."

"They said," Mr. Sun continued, "that by doing this they would break the ice."

"What?" the Sun Fairies exclaimed. "We have never heard that expression."

"Neither had I," said Mr. Sun. "And I was puzzled as to the meaning of it for some time. I thought I would never understand it."

"Did you finally?" the Sun Fairies asked.

"Yes," said Mr. Sun. "I kept looking in the window and paying attention, and at last it was explained so that I understood."

"You see, at first I was particularly puzzled because I knew it was too early in the year to break the ice."

"Well, I shall explain the expression to you."

"They meant when they said that they would break the ice, by having games ready at the start so that the party would begin right off in the right spirit, that the ones who were shy would lose their shyness right away."

"Breaking the ice meant that they would break the stiffness and the shyness of the guests at first by having plans made for them. And it seemed such a nice expression. It made me feel that when I begin to break the ice by shining so hard and making the ice melt under my warmth that I am helping along a spring party which would otherwise be a stiff, shy affair. Oh, it seemed a wonderful expression to me, and it made me very happy."

"We should think it would," said the Sun Fairies. "And we feel happy about it, too."

"Of course, I knew you would," said Mr. Sun.

"And then," he continued, "I saw the guests arrive at the party and sure enough! Everything began so gaily for everyone was interested in the spiderweb game. And then I saw a cake with lighted candles upon it for it seemed it was the birthday of one of the guests. The candles were of all sizes, some short, some tall, some looked as though they almost might topple over for they had melted in those directions at a party given some time before."

"And I heard the candles say in their bright little fashions:

"We like it because we're used again and again. Of course there are some very superior candles in superior little holders and they're even in length and perfect and new. They're very fine. But we like to be as we are—wax like a piece of paper over the cake which keeps us from spoiling the taste of the cake—good friendly candles, used until there is nothing left of us to use."

Proof Mark Played on Weapons Made in Europe

Spanish and German firearms usually have, instead of the maker's name, a seal, frequently of gold, depicting characters—animals and letters—from which, if possessed of a list of such seals, one might determine the manufacture of the weapon, and hence its approximate date. English and French gunmakers, however, if marking the arm at all, did so by placing their name and that of their town on the lock-plate or barrel or on both.

The marks known as "proof marks" were stamped on, usually by a government official, after he had tried out and "proven" the arm to be all right. As a rule the method of "proving" was to load the piece with several times its normal amount of powder and shot, and then discharge the same. If it survived the test it was considered "proven" satisfactorily.

Thus, as different marks were not adopted until a certain date, one may ordinarily be assured that an arm bearing them was not manufactured before that date.—Detroit News.

Glass-Silk Fiber

Venus' basket is a glass-silk sponge which grows in the tropical seas of the Pacific, from the Fujian region to the Indian ocean. By the Japanese it is called the mineral silk sponge, and is used for its fiber, which is woven into chemical fiber cloths, into fireproof candlesticks and into delicate fireproof curtains.

In its natural state the glass sponge is covered with these long silky fibers which are used in the arts referred to. A small tuft of these fibers covers the base. The specimens are taken up from the ocean bed, and the framework, which cannot be separated into fiber for weaving, is employed in the covering of steamships and in cold-storage insulation, where it has been found equal to asbestos. Certain specimens are said to measure fully forty inches in length and three to four inches in diameter.

Impossible

"So that's the baby, eh?"

"That's the baby."

"Well, I hope you will bring it up to be a conscientious, God-fearing man."

"I'm afraid that will be rather difficult."

"Pshaw! As the twig is bent the tree is inclined."

"I know, but this twig is bent on being a girl."

SCIENCE EXPECTS TO CONQUER INSANITY

Finds Way to Rejuvenate Mankind by Treatment.

Washington.—Science is approaching mastery over insanity, old age and other ills through study of the endocrine glands and discovery of means of their control, Dr. William J. A. Bailey of New York declared in a paper at a session of the American Chemical society.

Describing development of basic knowledge about endocrine radiation with the gamma ray as being of transcending importance to the human race, Doctor Bailey, who is director of the American Endocrine laboratories, declared "we have cornered aberration, disease, old age and, in fact, life and death themselves in the endocrines."

"If we look more to the endocrine glands and less to the head," he said, "we have an excellent chance of eradicating insanity."

"In and around these glands," he added, "must center future efforts toward human rejuvenation, a goal for which the world has sought and one which now seems to be truly realized."

Study of the principles involved in endocrine localization, said Doctor Bailey, has placed science on the threshold of a new era.

"We have too long regarded insanity as purely a brain condition," he declared. "Its seat is unquestionably in the endocrine glands, which absolutely control every brain function."

"No greater truth has been revealed to mankind than that these lowly masses of colloidal ooze regulate all body activity, down to the tiniest cell. I am satisfied, from clinical experience, that a method of endocrine localization is now available whereby we can definitely, practically without exception, retard the progress of senescence and give a new lease of relatively normal functioning power to those whose sun of life is slowly sinking into the purple shadows of that longest night."

"Rejuvenation means more today than any other subject that can concern a man or woman. The wrinkled face, the drawn skin, the dull eye, the listless gait, the faulty memory, the aching body, the destructive effects of sterility, all stem from imperfect endocrine performance."

Crowd Has Personality but Little Individuality

It would have been more to the purpose if the critics had insisted upon Walt Whitman's position as the poet of personality, rather than of individuality. These terms are commonly confused in the minds of most people, and even held to be interchangeable. In reality a maximum of individuality implies a minimum of personality and vice versa. The individual, as such, is necessarily isolated and therefore devoid of personal ability to share in the lives and fortunes of others; the truly strong personality is he who is able most fully to share and understand the nature of those with whom he is in contact, and who correspondingly subordinates his individuality to theirs. And the same is true of crowds, as of individuals. A crowd has personality; it has little or no individuality. It is a fact that crowds in different countries reveal individual differences: thus an English crowd is less excitable, restless, noisy, than an American crowd; and a Chinese crowd may be even more reserved, for aught I know; yet, despite these accents, each crowd expresses certain fundamental reactions, possesses certain elementary desires common to all humanity. Each crowd is at bottom a vast reservoir of blind desire, vague faith, dumb suffering; each crowd is composed of units that breathe, hope, die; each crowd is uncoordinated personality in conflict with individual differentiation; each crowd is at once Everyman and Noman.—John Gould Fletcher in the North American Review.

Man Waits 42 Years to Get Even With Farmer

Java Center, N. Y.—After "laying" for Anson Hartwell 42 years to "get even" on a gravel bed dicker, Sim Loe, the alleged victim, has at last attained his revenge.

Some six months ago Sim purchased from Anse a black and white cow, the consideration being $75. Sim rendered his note. To protect his own interests Anse insisted on a chattel mortgage on the cow, and the document, containing a minute description of the critter, was duly executed.

A little later Sim appeared at Anse's place leading the cow he had purchased.

"She don't jes suit me, Anse," he said. "I've kinder taken a fancy to that little red heifer of yours and propose an even trade."

Now this particular animal was highly valued by Anse. It was undersized and of inferior breed. He welcomed the proposal to swap as he would the finding of buried treasure.

The note fell due and Anse demanded payment. Sim just "strung him along," as he now declares. Finally Anse threatened to foreclose on the chattel mortgage.

"Anse, you ain't got no chattel mortgage on my cow. You've got it plastered on a black and white cow that is in your own pasture at this moment. So I guess we'll let the note jes run along. Are you afeared for any more gravel beds?"

The Retort Courteous

Two high school girls were engaged in conversation on the street. Said the first:

Same Manner for Both

The wealthy uncle was talking over the prospects of his nephew with the lady mother.

"How is he doing with his studies?"

"Oh, very well. He shows a great talent for music, and his manner is very laudable. His teacher thinks he will become a conductor."

"Ah! Indeed?" responded uncle.

Appropriate Remedy

Not long ago a woman called on a physician who is noted both for his efficiency and his bluntness. This woman's baby was indisposed and this doctor ordered castor oil.

"That, doctor," protested the woman, "would do it such an old-fashioned remedy?"

"Well, you are a fastidious, sophisticated woman," answered the doctor.

Where Cancer Cure Was Effected

"One of the rarest cases in medical history" is what noted scientists are terming the complete cure of Miss Celia Trubitz, who was considered an incurable cancer case two years ago. The cure was effected through the combined use of radium and X-rays developed from a new machine capable of 200,000 volts. Dr. William M. Livingston, assistant medical director of Montefiore Hospital, New York City, who announced the discovery, is shown here preparing for treatment of another patient. The instrument shown is that used in the treatment of Miss Trubitz, whose cure is considered particularly exceptional because she was in such an advanced condition.

Buzzards Nearly Starve Now in Vera Cruz, Mex.

Vera Cruz, Mex.—Vera Cruz, once the pestilence spot of the Mexican gulf, with the buzzards constituting its only sanitary service, has in the few years since the American bombardment and occupation of the city in 1914 obliterated its unfavorable reputation of the past. Today it is among the cleanest and healthiest cities of the sub-tropics. Yellow fever and malaria have been reduced to a minimum and other tropical diseases are being combated successfully.

The buzzards that once clustered about the city in great numbers are still to be seen, but they eke out a meager livelihood from the few scraps that gain their way to the streets. The open sewers that once ran through the centers of the thoroughfares have disappeared and a modern sewage disposal system has been installed. During the De La Huerta occupation additional sanitary precautions were taken, and the federal occupational authorities are exhausting every means to render the city free from disease.

Ascribes Bird's Death to Grief Over Its Dead Mate

Oakland, Cal.—Otto Emerson, Hayward (Cal.) naturalist, who found two humming birds a few days old and raised them until full grown, reports that one of them died of grief because it accidentally caused the death of the other.

Emerson said the birds were inseparable. For hours they would play together and at night would roost close to each other. One day in their aerial swinging one knocked the other with force against a wall. The injured bird retired to a dark corner. The next morning it was dead.

The bereaved bird seemed dazed all that day. His feathers drooped, his head hung. He neither flew nor ate. The next morning he, too, was dead.

Such instances of birds' affection are not unusual, according to Emerson.

FORESTS AIDED PRIMITIVE MAN

Dependence on Wood Products of Hawaiian Is Told by Forestry Chief.

New York.—The important role played by forest products in the daily life of the primitive native is described by Charles S. Judd, superintendent of forestry of the territory of Hawaii, who tells of the skill they employ in converting plant growths into useful articles with the aid only of patience, fire, stone and muscle. Even before Captain Cook landed there the Hawaiians were making their means of transportation, their weapons of defense, and objects for their bodily comfort, pleasure and religious observances out of wood.

"The outstanding feat of the primitive Hawaiian was the manufacture of the outrigger canoe, which was built so substantially and so seaworthy that voyages of thousands of miles across the open sea were made in it with comparative safety," says Superintendent Judd. "Materials from at least thirteen different trees and plants were necessary to construct the dugout canoe completely. The body was usually hollowed from the stem of the koa, largest and most suitable tree for this purpose, although less durable and satisfactory dugouts were fashioned from the ohia, breadfruit and kukui. The smallness of the available logs was offset by building up the gunwale, or rim, of the canoe with the soft yellow wood of the akaka, and this wood and that of the akia were carved into pieces that adorned the bow and stern of every oldtime canoe to prevent the sea from pouring in.

"The primitive Hawaiian was forced to exercise his ingenuity in the invention of the outrigger because the small size of the logs made the canoes unstable. The outrigger consisted of a piece of corky willow wood, smaller than the canoe in both dimensions, but shaped so as to cut the water, and was fastened parallel to the body of the canoe by two curved pieces of curved hau wood. In the absence of a breeze the canoe was propelled by paddles made of koa, kaula, and akaka. When a coat of black paint, made from the bark of the kukui and from the soot of burned kukui nuts, had been smeared on with kukui nut oil, the result was a strong, safe and navigable craft exhibiting all the fine elements of finished workmanship."

Superintendent Judd states that some of the Hawaiian woods are so slow-growing, hard and heavy that they have almost the properties of metal. It was from such woods that the natives of the period of strenuous inter-island warfare fashioned their spears from the hard parts of the native fanpalm, and from the alaboe woods such as the willow and kukui. Before they made spears they rubbed a sharp clothes stick in a groove of the softer hau wood until a spark was produced which could be blown into a flame.

Make Cloth, Dyes and Perfume.

"When the primitive Hawaiian became addicted to clothing he had to make his own garments out of the only material available—the inner bark of trees and shrubs," said Superintendent Judd. "The products of 20 different species of trees or plants were employed in the manufacture of bark cloth, or tapa. The most popular bark was obtained from mulberry trees; but the bark of several other trees, including the native raspberry, was also employed. The inner bark was made into cords and threads for sewing the tapa together. The male blossom of the breadfruit was mixed with the fiber of the wauke in making a rare kind of tapa. The finished product, when made in the laborious manner that was necessary, was a plain white cloth bleached in the sun."

"The plain cloth was sometimes ornamented with decorative designs imposed by various methods. The fibrous ends of the seed of the hala tree were used as brushes in applying the dyes obtained by the Hawaiians from various sources. The bark of the ohia, charcoal of the kolea, leaves of the alaboe, and the juice of the fleshy covering of the kukui nut furnished a black dye; a blue dye came from the leaves and bark of the ohia; for yellow the bark and roots of the yellow goup of the fruit of the name, or indigenous gardenia were used, and a red dye was obtained from the leaves of the kou and of the palau fern, and the bark of the palau. To correct the rather unpleasant odor of the raw tapa a perfume was made by putting the leaves or twigs of certain plants between its folds. Sandalwood and native ginger were sometimes used for this purpose, but the favorite odor was from the makihana, obtained on the island of Kauai, whose capes have the permanent odor of spice.

Priceless Feather Capes.

"First products also furnished the necessary adjuncts for the new priceless feather capes which were worn by chieftains alone. The close bark furnished the backbone into which the small feathers of forest birds were carved. These birds were usually carved with bird heads supplied from the tip of the eye, or breadfruit, the kolea, and from the sticky fruit of the palau.

"The forest also furnished the early Hawaiians with the materials for his dyes and his perfumes. Sandalwood supplied him with house perfume, and the leaves and mountain apple with perfume, perfume and house perfume, which the Hawaiians used to rub on their bodies. The bark of breadfruit wood, and the interior was steeped with made of lichen. Cooking utensils were fashioned from the forest woods, while out of the heavy black wood of the night and made a glass covered with a small sticky substance which would catch through the water to attract fish.

"For their religious observances the Hawaiians fashioned idols out of the bark wood of the balapapa, and the harder wood of the ohia and ohia lehua, while the lama was used for the houses of the gods and for sacred enclosures. For their sports they made sled runners from breadfruit and coconut, they got fireworks by using papaya wood in the form of lighted sticks thrown over the cliffs, and the hon and willow were made into surfboards."

"The kukui and the coconut might be described as the two most useful trees. The former has been known as the 'tree of light' for not only does its light, silvery-yellow foliage show it up conspicuously above its fellows in the forest, but from its nuts an oil was pressed for burning in stone lamps, and the roasted nuts themselves were strung on the midrib of the coconut palm leaf to serve as candles. The coconut tree supplied not only brooms and leaves for thatching, but nuts for food and drink, utensils and cord fiber, and wood for posts, and hula drums. Because it always grew at the shore it was accessible for the many purposes for which it was found useful."

Kitten No Longer

"What became of that little kitten you had?" asked a visitor of a small boy.

"Why, haven't you heard?"

"No. Was it drowned?"

"No."

"Lost?"

"No."

"Poisoned?"

"No."

"Then what did become of it?" said the visitor.

"It grew up into a cat."

Fish Sleep Open-Eyed, Ready for Quick Action

Washington.—Do fish sleep? They do, says the bureau of fisheries, and moreover, sleep well, without closing their eyes. The sleep of fish is a type of suspended animation, during which some of the functions of the brain are at rest with their bodies.

But the sleep or state of suspended animation of fish is by no means like the deep sleep of a human being. A fish asleep may be jarred into instant action, with all his faculties alert and responsive, by a sudden motion of the water or a jar of the bank of a stream or lake.

The bureau is satisfied that aquarium fish, at least, have a period of rest in which they lie on the bottom of the glass enclosure without movement. They have been observed in the day time and at night, and officials of the bureau believe these periods of rest come most frequently after meal time.

As to deep-sea fish, the bureau has observed similar actions in both the larger and smaller fish. Sharks, when they lie just under the surface of the water, running themselves, probably pass into a state of sleep, although their faculties are still alert. Whales are classed as mammals, but their eyes are lidless and do not close beneath the surface of the ocean.

Dresden.—Scented candles to suit the occasion and daintily colored to match the complexion of the hostess have been used to give tone to some German society events of late. College Instructor Finds Mixer Earns More Money

Who has the greater income after college years—the scholar or the mixer? How rates the student of chemistry? One answer is given by an instructor in the University of Michigan. He has prepared a sort of alumni who's who and for how much.

The scope of his inquiry is not known, but his compilation points to the conclusion that in the ten-year period since graduation, high scholarship men have reached an average annual income of $8,000, with men prominent in extra-curriculum activities placed at an average of $10,000 a year. A word of explanation goes along with the figures. Says the instructor:

The statistics do not prove that the men of the highest grade are incapable of earning big money—they merely show these men do not prefer lines of work which are most lucrative. So we conclude that those who brood the lamp in college are rewarded in the measure set by their choice of career, and that those who wooed other flames have come to a more golden fortune. Scholars or mixers—young men in college all have their bill paid. Some there be who burn their oil, and some there be who merely spread it, but oil's well that ends well.—Nation's Business.

Age of the Sun

The age of the sun has been fixed at something between two billion and three billion years by Prof. Walter Nernst, after researches announced at a meeting in Berlin of the Society for Industrial Progress. The estimates are based on the rate of decomposition of radio-active elements, and in part on deductions from Einstein's theory of relativity concerning the relation between mass and energy. Early estimates set the age of the sun as low as ten million years, but geologists showed this was too short to allow for the erosion and other changes observed in the crust of the earth since it became solid. The radioactive decomposition of uranium to lead is a more accurate cosmic clock, and this indicates that the solid crust of the earth has existed for at least one and one-half billion years. According to Nernst, the sun, while getting past middle age, is still good for 400,000,000 years, after which a crust will form on its surface and life such as we know it will cease upon the earth.

BUSY MEN DICTATE THEIR LOVE NOTES

Public Stenographer Helps Frame Tender Messages.

New York.—A Paris dispatch not long ago carried the information that the last public letter writer had closed up shop for good and all, the inference being that with less illiterate the world over, people now preferred to write their own love letters. As this was a large part of the corner scribbler's job in European countries, he had been forced out of business.

Following close on this news comes word of a public amanuensis in New York city who helps tired business men to inscribe messages of more or less sentiment to distant loved ones. It is claimed, too, that the making of sentimental phrases for the American man who cannot make them himself, but who still chooses old-fashioned language in which to do wooing, is not unknown to our present-day public stenographers.

Six Footers Inarticulate. It is the six footer who is the most inarticulate when it comes to written love talk, according to Miss Lillian Anna Wippler of the Waldorf, who has spent six years writing letters for statesmen, industrialists, scholars and just plain business men.

"I can tell by the look of a man the kind of letter he will write," said the composer of endearing lyrics. "A little fellow wearing dapper clothes always uses more flowery language than the six footer. The big man uses short sentences and short words. Tells her in a straightforward way that he loves her and how much. No nonsense about the big ones. The little men write long letters, full of long words and more sentimental."

Are they as sincere? Well, the didn't know about that. She wouldn't say they were insincere. But the six footer seemed to "get over" more with his few words than the other man with his elaborate phrases.

Lovers Not Timid. Miss Wippler does not think the present-day lover at all timid. "Men shy" laughed the recipient of intimate confidences. "Never!" No, not even about their sweethearts. They are as natural, she says, when dictating a love letter, as they are when dictating a brief or a contract. To them this love letter business is a job to be done in the best possible way, and if they don't feel equal to it they find some one to help them. This is where the public stenographer comes in.

"The up-to-date business man," pursued the young philosopher, "is saying it with flowers and proving it with jewelry. He does little writing. He knows that the girl at home is not so much interested in beautiful words as she is in his latest business deal. The success of that business deal means an early wedding, and that is what she is thinking about."

Copy Letter in Longhand. "But there are the other kind—the men who do not seem to realize that the necessity for verbal flowers has passed. They do know, though, that they haven't the ability to write those 'flowers,' so when they want to write a love letter they seek the services of a woman stenographer. It isn't always because they want to avoid the work of writing."

"Nine out of ten of them copy the letter in longhand after I have typed it. What they want, I think, is the woman's viewpoint. I can tell, from the careful way in which men watch when they are dictating, that they are interested most of all in my reaction to their letter. If I should show the faintest trace of amusement the man would immediately strike out that particular sentence."

Couple Prepare to Spend Married Life in Prison

Ponchartraine, La.—John Alton Rogers and his bride are preparing to honeymoon in jail for life.

Rogers and his wife pleaded guilty and were sentenced to life imprisonment for the murder of Rogers' brother, Love, first husband of the convicted bride.

Love Rogers was killed in order that his brother might obtain his wife, according to the confession made when the couple was arrested in Florida, where they had eloped after baring Love Rogers in a crude grave.

Total Wealth of U. S. Is Estimated at 300 Billion

New York.—Over half of the wealth owned by the people of the United States or existing in the United States is contained in the single item of real property, the land of these 48 states and the buildings making its cities and villages and farm houses, according to a summary made by the National Association of Real Estate Boards of statistics just released by the United States bureau of census.

The total wealth of the United States, exclusive of property owned by the United States government, is $310,274,476,000, according to the census lists of wealth in the 48 states. Of this, real estate makes up a total of $174,231,456,000. This includes property of states and of smaller governmental divisions.

Of the total valuation of real property outside of federal holdings a total of $154,194,591 is taxable. Tax-exempt real property, including schools, churches and state and local public buildings, amounts to a total of $20,036,476,000, the census statistics show.

Had Another Pair

"What do you mean by bringing me an odd pair of boots?" demanded the enraged master, displaying one black boot and one brown.

"Indeed, sorry," said the new Irish valet, "it's a queer thing. But the queerest thing is, there's another pair down below just like them."

WEIRD MUSIC OF THE LAPPS IS RECORDED

Songs of Swedish Nomads Available for First Time.

Stockholm, Sweden.—The Lapps are perhaps the only people in the world who have no swear words in their language, but they have wrath songs instead, and thus have, in a sense, exalted profanity into an art.

This and other striking information about the music of the Lapps has just come to light through the explorations and researches of Karl Tiren, who has brought back to Stockholm 500 scores and 700 phonographs records of the weird songs of these mysterious nomads of the Swedish north.

The fact that Lapp songs are forms of personal expression and not means of giving entertainment for listeners has made it almost impossible for observers to learn much about them.

It took years of association before Mr. Tiren could win sufficient confidence of any Lapp to be let into so secret and personal a thing as his music making, or "jolking," as it is called. Once that confidence was established, however, he was richly rewarded.

The typical Lapp song contains a melodious metrical and rhythmic text without rhyme. The music is descriptive of the theme and there are "leitmotifs" for each person, animal or thing. The bear, the reindeer, the squirrel, the river, the hill, even the mangrove, each has his peculiar motif. Mr. Tiren has interested musicians here by showing that many pieces of the Lapp music bear strong resemblance to Wagner. Thus a song about a bear that attacks the reindeer is a close parallel to one of the motifs in "Rheingold." So vivid and poignant is this song that Lapp women have been known to faint during its rendition.

Mr. Tiren's collection includes medicine men's incantations, laments, psalms, wrath songs and a great range of descriptive tunes. One of the most descriptive represents a Swedish crown prince, afterward Charles XV, who visited Lapland some 70 years ago, and it bears an uncanny similarity to another tune supposed to describe a mountain in Lapland.

Sand Shower Protects Treasure

On the plain of Chimu, near Truxillo, is a great mound said to contain a treasure of fabulous value. Several attempts have been made to tunnel into it, but the sand has always poured down, and stopped the work of excavation.

The Titleholder

The talk turned to the meanness record. It was achieved by the employer who had his stenographer stay after hours and then charged her for the telephone call to say she wouldn't be home for dinner.—New York.
